A Bit about Olive Oil

Why Italian olive oil?

Italy has led the world in olive oil production for hundreds of years. Nearly all the regions in the country contribute to its production of approximately a third of the world's olive oil. Few manufacturers still practice the traditional methods of mat pressing and stone crushing. Yet, its Mediterranean climate and ancient techniques of growing and harvesting, which are passed on through generations, ensure the quality of Italian olive oil for years to come.

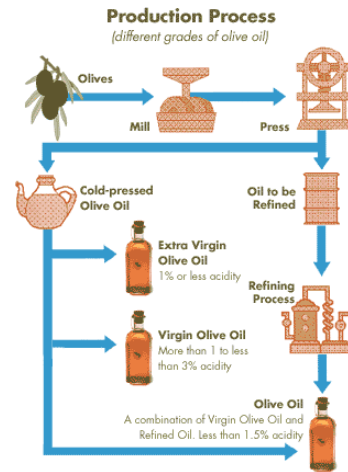

Why pay attention to the oils' regions of origin?

The taste, aroma, and viscosity of olive oil is greatly influenced by the region of origin. Italfoods has a large selection of extra virgin oils from varying regions of Italy and a few other countries. This wide variety gives the consumer the ability to create dishes of all flavors and varieties.

Italy is a unique country in that its land is almost entirely surrounded by water. Yet, it is also bordered in the north by the Swiss Alps. This topography makes for a varied climate leading to a variety of growing conditions. The north experiences frigid, mountainous air which allows the olives to exude a lighter and softer taste. The olive oil generally has a buttery finish. Central Italy receives the bulk of Italy's Mediterranean climate. This promotes a stronger, darker oil. The general taste characterized by this climate is grassy and herbaceous with a peppery kick, and sometimes a fruity essence. The southern regions of Italy have a hotter and drier climate, accompanied by a more rugged terrain. Oils from this region can range anywhere from light to very strong with distinct flavors of almond, artichoke, and tomato.

Another way of examining the regions is by coastal versus inland. Coastal regions such as Liguria and Sicily, which are bordered by water, generally produce oils that are great accompaniments to seafood dishes. The golden color and buttery taste of these oils can accentuate the flavor of fish because they too receive the benefits of the salty air and warm seas. The regions which extend more inland such as Tuscany and Umbria have a stronger, fuller flavor. These oils enhance the flavors of meat and also create a nice finish to salads.

What defines different types of oils?

Extra Virgin Olive Oil, which is the highest quality oil, is created through the first pressing of the olives. It must have less than .8% acidity. This measure of oleic acid in the oil is very important because as the acid increases, the quality of the oil decreases. The following list of oils will focus primarily on the extra virgin olive oils imported by Italfoods, with the exception of a few pure oils.

Pure Olive Oil is the second highest in quality. It contains a maximum of 1% acidity. This olive oil is produced through the second pressing of olives.

Pomace Olive Oil is produced in the last pressing of the olives. It is then chemically extracted using benzene. As quality Italian food importers, we at Italfoods do not carry pomace olive oil.

What else characterizes olive oil?

Visually, olive oil can have an array of colors ranging from a pale yellow to a deep green. The golden oils tend to have a softer taste, while the dark green oils have a distinct kick to them. Filtration is another visible difference in oils. Some olive oils are left unfiltered, producing a cloudy appearance with sediment at the bottom. These oils are often mistaken as “bad”, however the sediment is normal and surprisingly full of flavor. The texture of olive oils can range from fat to thin. There are many aromas that an oil can emanate. A few of these include a smell of sweet, fresh, or fruity. Each person may decipher the scent in a slightly different way because of his or her unique senses. Lastly, taste can vary greatly amongst the many oils. They can be complex, meaning that as the oil is ingested it delivers a variety of flavors. For example, an oil may begin with a fruity flavor when it first enters the mouth, yet end with a peppery kick as it reaches the back of the mouth and the throat. This “peppery kick” can often create a tickle in the back of one’s throat. The olives also tend to pick up the tastes of some of the other produce that is grown in the surrounding areas. All of these characteristics combine to make the uniqueness of each olive oil, which in turn allows for a chef to produce plates with an equal amount of individuality.

How can the flavor of olive oil be maintained?

Generally olive oil is best if used within a year of its harvest because flavor will slowly fade. However, if some factors are controlled, a significantly longer life can be expected from the oil. Light, oxidation, and heat are the major factors that will harm the olive oil. Oxidation is created when air enters a container. Therefore, oil is best kept in an airtight container stored in a cool, dry place. If a decent portion of oil is used from a container and it will be some time before the oil is used again, then it is best to transfer the oil to a smaller, air tight container. Some of the oils Italfoods offers come with special packaging to help reduce the amount of light that enters the bottle.

Our Olive Oils by Region

ABRUZZO

DE CECCO EVOO #452250 / 500 ml #452260 / 1 ltr #452270 / 3 ltr -tin

This oil is made exclusively with 100% Italian olives grown in a warm climate and fertile soil. With less than 0.4% acidity and an intense green color it exudes a well-balanced, fruity, almond-sweet flavor. This full and fragrant oil is great for bread dipping, salads, and vegetables.

RUSTICHELLA D'ABRUZZO EVOO #452399 / 500 ml

Gianluigi Peduzzi, the owner of Rustichella d'Abruzzo, selects only the finest olives from Abruzzo to produce his outstanding extra virgin olive oil: 80% Dritta Francavillese and 20% Leccino. The olives are harvested in October throughout the Vestine hills, Pianella region in Abruzzo. The olives are crushed and bottled within 36 hours of harvest. This is a beautiful finishing oil especially when drizzled over salad, pesto, soups or stews.

ESPERIDIA AGRUMATO FLAVORED EVOO

The incredibly pleasing aromas and tastes of these oils are achieved by crushing whole citrus fruits with select olives simultaneously between granite stones. When the resulting paste has obtained the right density the oil is extracted. The process is much longer than is usual for producing Extra Virgin Olive Oil and the low yield makes this product rare and precious. They are unparalleled by any other citrus flavored oils, which use the more common infusion method.

- ❖ LEMON: A bright, crisp aroma on the palate of fresh ripe lemon pulp. Marries perfectly with a wide variety of raw and cooked foods. Toss with pasta and fresh ricotta and drizzle over grilled fish, roasted vegetables, or fresh greens. #453410 / 200 ml 453440 / 500 ml
- ❖ ORANGE: The alluring aroma of a cracked, ripe orange skin is followed by a long finish of olive and citrus notes. It is perfect with grilled poultry, on spinach salad, and over roasted root vegetables or squash. #453420 / 200 ml
- ❖ TANGERINE: The fragrance of this oil is astonishingly redolent of fresh tangerines with a slightly bitter finish. Drizzle it over roasted squash, beet salad, grilled shellfish or salmon. #453430 / 200 ml

PUGLIA

CALOGIURI AFFIORATO EVOO

#451300 / 250 ml

#451310 / 750 ml

The Calogiuri family has been making olive oil in Lizzanello (located in Salento district) Italy since 1825. They utilize an old technique which relies on the simplest means to make their olive oil. Each November, they cold crush their olives with care and extract the oil with affiorato (surfacing). This technique consists of waiting, after crushing, for the oil to rise to the surface from the olive juices. This floating oil is scooped in flagons by hand. Only three other companies in Italy still produce affiorato oil. Calogiuri Affiorato Extra Virgin Olive Oil has a fresh, delicate taste. This oil is beautifully packaged with a cork in a box.

CRUDO EVOO

#452860 / 750 ml

The Schiralli family began producing extra virgin olive oil in 1922. The present owner's grandfather started a small family production in the foothills near Bari in Puglia. More than 8,000 olive trees are spread over 20 hectares. Adhering to the ancient tradition of respecting the land and all it has to offer, Crudo oil is grown, harvested and pressed on site using the continuous cycle production method. This process minimizes oxidation and produces an oil rich in polyphenols. Mono cultivar Ogliarola olives. It is bright yellow-green in color with flavors of green olives, fresh almonds and artichokes. The oil has a delicate sweetness and fruity aftertaste. Drizzle on salads, steamed vegetables, or grilled fish.

#451820 / 3 ltr - tin

The original and most versatile oil of the Manca family in Sardegna, Italy. It is obtained by cold crushing only the finest Bosano, Frantoio, Coratina, Leccino, Ogliarola, and Semmidana olives in traditional stone mills. It has the aroma of fruity, ripe olives with hints of almond and vanilla. The flavor is sweet and well balanced with slightly bitter and spicy tones. This oil is excellent with seafood starters, vegetable soups, deep-fried vegetables, shellfish, fresh cheeses, and fried-dough desserts.

SAN GIULIANO EVOO UNFILTERED

#451811 / 750 ml #451812 / 1 ltr

This unfiltered EVOO comes from the freshest green fruit of the olive picked at the early stages of the harvest period. The original characteristics of the olive shine through. Freshness, cloudiness and light nuances of spice with a fruity note best describe the attributes of this oil.. Unfiltered San Giuliano is recommended for marinades, salads, bruschetta, focaccia, as a raw vegetable dip, on steamed vegetables, fish and meat dishes and all of those dishes in which you want to add a distinctive and characteristic note. The presence of sediment at the bottom of the bottle and cloudiness represent a natural characteristic of this oil.

SAN GIULIANO PREMIER EVOO

#451840 / 500 ml

This oil is produced exclusively from the very best Bosano olives on the San Giuliano estates in Alghero, Sardegna. It is the best quality oil produced by the Manca family. It has a translucent golden yellow color with slight emerald tones. An elegant oil with green hints of freshly cut grass and cherry tomato. The flavor is smooth and well rounded with hints of apple and banana. Pairs perfectly with seafood appetizers, steamed shellfish, mollusks and white meats.

SARDEGNA (cont'd)

SAN GIULIANO FRUTTATO EVOO #451845 / 750 ml

A Sardinian oil made from a diverse variety of olives including Bosano, Frantoio, Semidana, Coratina, Biancolilla, and Leccino. The fruit is picked between October and November when it is not fully ripe, resulting in an intense, spicy, and fruity flavor. Fruttato (meaning "fruitier") also has hints of artichokes and is accompanied by a pleasant fragrance of fresh olives and grass. This filtered, yellow and gold oil is excellent on garden salads, seafood salads, vegetables, soups, meats, dipping bread, and for marinating.

SAN GIULIANO EVOO ORGANIC

#451860 / 250 ml

#451865 / 750 ml

SICILY

OLIO VERDE EVOO - UNFILTERED

#452392 / 500 ml

This special unfiltered oil originates in Castelvetro, Sicily. The olives used are 100% Nocellara del Belice from ancient stock. They are hand picked at a very young age when they are in the "white phase" (still green, but coated with a light, whitish sheen that only exists for two weeks). Many regard this as too early because the yield is still low, however Becchina & Company seeks the strong, green flavor these olives exude. The stone-crushing and natural storing methods continue to preserve the grassy, fruity flavors that are so characteristic of this oil. It's long, peppery finish gives this oil a vivacious kick. Drizzle this hearty oil over fresh greens, grilled meats, or toasted Italian bread.

LEMON OLIO VERDE EVOO

#453395 / 8.45 oz

Gianfranco Becchina cultivates the prized Nocellara del Belice olive alongside Femminello lemons on his estates in Castelvetro near the ancient Greek ruins of Selinunte in Western Sicily. The "verdelli" lemons and the olives are hand harvested at their peak, still green, which improves the quality of the oil. Within a few hours, the olives are milled in Gianfranco's frantoio, and only the lemon zest is added to the olive paste to capture the citrus' pure essence. Olio Verde al Limone releases its delicate flavor raw or in cooking.

TUSCANY

SAGRA IGP EVOO

#452362 / 500 ml

A superior oil harvested in a grove with 45,000 dwarf trees in Viareggio, Tuscany. The unique size of these trees allows for consistent sunlight throughout the grove and less damage to the olives when harvested. It is made from Frantoio, Leccino, and Pendolino olive varieties, creating a rich yellow/green color. It exudes a balanced, sweet and fruity olive taste.

TENUTA DI CAPEZZANA EVOO

#452390 / 500 ml

This unfiltered oil is known for its remarkably low oleic acid (rarely exceeding 0.2%) due to its unique processing. The olives are picked in late October and are crushed within 24 hours of harvest in a granite mill. The mash is then put through a double centrifugal decanting process, which is a milder means of separating the solids from the water. Afterwards, another stainless steel centrifuge separates the oil from the water. The oil is then stored for a few weeks to decant naturally. It is made from the Frantoio, Moraiolo, Pendolino, Leccino, and Santa Caterina olives picked exclusively in Carmignano, Tuscany. This bright green oil is surprisingly fresh and aromatic, with a light, smooth texture. Well balanced and slightly fruity, it has many layers of flavor with a distinct Tuscan peppery finish.

BADIA A COLTIBUONO EVOO

#452330 / 250 ml

#452310 / 1 ltr

This Tuscan, golden-green oil is extracted from the first cold pressing of handpicked olives. The taste is uniquely full-flavored, piquant, and long lasting, yet light and fresh on the palate. Every bottle is harvest dated to guarantee freshness and quality. It is best used as a finishing oil on salads, in pasta, soups, on potatoes, and toasted bread.

LAUDEMIO FRESCOBALDI EVOO

#452380 / 500 ml

This exceptional oil produced in the hills of Chianti Ruffina, Tuscany adheres to the strict guidelines of the Laudemio consortium. This ensures a consistent oil of the highest quality. It is made from Frantoio, Moraiolo, and Leccino olive varieties. A green, fruity oil with aromatic hints of artichoke and pepper. Frescobaldi is best used as a condiment over beans, grilled or steamed vegetables, and drizzled over soups. Each bottle of this filtered oil is individually boxed to protect it from light.

FRANTOIO DI SOMMAIA EVOO

#452396 / 500 ml - tin

#452395 / 750 ml

A beautiful unfiltered oil from olives of Appenine varieties in the Tuscan region. The olives are harvested by hand just as the green color begins to darken, creating a deep green color and big olive aroma. This oil is rustic and complex with a pungent personality, yet has a surprisingly rich and buttery mouth feel. A fantastic condiment with steamed vegetables, drizzled over Tuscan beans, or used to dress a bed of fresh greens.

CASTELLO DI VOLPAIA

#452397 / 250 ml

An unfiltered oil produced using a special sinolea technique. Classic Tuscan olive fruits of the Frantoio, Leccino, and Moraiolo varieties are crushed in a stone mill and then passed through the sinolea machine. Hundreds of tiny steel blades comb through the paste, gently pulling the fresh oil from the solids. The sinolea yields are low, but the oil, so delicately handled, is extraordinarily pure and low in acidity. The transparent green oil is rich in unripe tomato and artichoke aroma. The oil imparts a lengthy ripe fruit flavor and a mildly spicy finish. It is perfect for adding flavor to any dish.

UMBRIA

BARTOLINI EVOO D.O.P.

#452475 / 500 ml

This certified quality oil represents the best of all Umbrian oils. It is derived from olives of excellent varieties: Moraiolo (at least 60%), Leccino, and Frantoio. They are all handpicked and cold-pressed using traditional methods. The olives are grown on a farm that practices sustainable agriculture. This golden green oil is intensely fruity with a pleasantly fresh tang. It becomes more harmonious and balanced as it matures. Great on vegetables and in salads.

BARTOLINI ANGEL LABEL EVOO

#452479 / 1 ltr

This angelic oil from Umbria has a balanced, green olive flavor. It is made from handpicked Moraiolo, Frantoio, and Leccino olives, which are milled within 12 hours. The essence of fruit and mild pepper leave a pleasant taste on the palate. It is perfect drizzled on grilled meats and fish.

BARTOLINI EVOO ORGANIC

#452473 / 500 ml

This golden green oil, made from organically grown Moraiolo, Leccino, and Frantoio olives, is certified to be free of any chemical treatment. It has the distinct Umbrian taste of olive and fresh fruit with herby undertones. This oil is excellent on vegetables and pasta.

BARTOLINI FLAVORED EVOO'S

These special aromatic oils are derived from the EVOO produced at the Emilio Bartolini farm in Umbria, Italy. The oil is placed in steel drums and infused with flavors that are unique to the region. Italfoods carries four varieties of this oil: basil, garlic, lemon, and porcini mushroom.

VENETO

BONAMINI VENETO VALPOLICELLA EVOO D.O.P. #452920 / 500 ml

The company philosophy of Bonamini is to keep close ties with Italy, its traditions and environment. Knowledge of the past is for Bonamini the basis of all the choices and the progress that has been made over the years by their company; their first aim is always producing very high quality Veneto extra virgin olive oil. In 1996 Bonamini's olive mill was one of the founders for the Consorzio di Tutela dell'Olio Estra Vergine del Veneto (Consortium for the Protection of Extra virgin olive oil from Veneto) which is active in promoting and safeguarding the oil produced in the region. Bonomini EVOO DOP is a well balanced medium fruity EVOO whose flavor is reminiscent of the original fruit. Produced by first cold extraction using continuous press from Favarol and Grignano olives of the Illasi Valley in the province of Verona. The color is a golden yellow with green nuances. It is especially good as a finishing oil on grilled fish, meat and chicken as well as steamed or roasted vegetables and savory salads.

GREECE

RENIERIS ESTATE EVOO – CRETE #453140 / 24.5 oz

This singular estate oil captures the freshness and aroma of the Mediterranean's most prized olives. Single varietal, single estate oil. Sweet, fruity and fragrant with a slight peppery finish.

SPAIN

CASTILLO DE CANENA- SMOKED ARBEQUINA EVOO #453105 / 250 ml

Since 1780, the Castillo de Canena estate has been producing exceptional oils in the Guadalquivir Valley of Andalusia in the south of Spain. This exceptional smoked oil is produced by slowly infusing the high quality Castillo arbequina oil with naturally produced smoke from a mix of oak, beech and birch wood, which impart their unique characteristics into the oil. Undertones of caramel, vanilla and toffee can be detected in the final oil. This unique oil is divine on its own, or pair it with your favorite recipes to create more complexly flavored dishes.

CASTILLO DE CANENA- ARBEQUINA EVOO #453110 / 500 ml

Since 1780, the Castillo de Canena estate has been producing exceptional oils in the Guadalquivir Valley of Andalusia in the south of Spain. Their Family Reserve oils are produced from olives that have been harvested early, a process that requires twice the amount of olives and renders an oil of exceptional quality, taste, and aroma. The arbequina oil has a sweet almond and green apple flavor.

SPAIN (cont'd)

CASTILLO DE CANENA- PICUAL EVOO

#453115 / 500 ml

Since 1780, the Castillo de Canena estate has been producing exceptional oils in the Guadalquivir Valley of Andalusia in the south of Spain. Their Family Reserve oils are produced from olives that have been harvested early, a process that requires twice the amount of olives and renders an oil of exceptional quality, taste, and aroma. The picual oil has a green olive flavor with hints of tomato and fresh cut grass.

CASTILLO DE CANENA - ROYAL EVOO

#453120 / 500 ml

The Royal varietal is native to the Cazorla Mountains (Jaén, Spain) whose cultivation goes back hundreds of years. Due to the difficulty of harvesting it, this olive varietal has suffered a drastic reduction in its cultivation and it is close to disappearing as a varietal. Castillo de Canena has recovered this unique varietal in their farm. There are not many Royal olive oils launched on the market because of the complexity of the collection and harvesting, and those you can find are just matures ones. Royal EVOO has an intense fruitiness of green olives and great complexity with herbal and fruity touches. At first you taste green apple, green banana and almonds. Then you find citric touches that remind you of lemon tree leaves. In the mouth it is very delicate and complex with the same olfactory perceptions. Very light bitterness and moderate, delicate and late pungency. Great harmony, medium structure, almond aftertaste and great persistence.

A Bit about Some of Our Vendors

BARTOLINI

The Bartolini Farm is located in Umbria, the green heart of Italy. Olive cultivation in Umbria has ancient origins and is deeply rooted in the family – so much so that no cupboard is without “a good oil”. All of this makes up a collective, cultural, and environmental patrimony that has lasted throughout time. Since 1850, six generations of Bartolini’s have dedicated the majority of their resources to the production of extra virgin olive oil. During the months of November and December the oil mill is in almost constant operation, creating beautiful and tasteful oils.

COLAVITA

A long time ago in the quaint hilltop village of Sant’Elia a Pianisi, located in the Molise region of Italy, two small family businesses were born. One family operated a stone mill for crushing homegrown olives used to produce fine extra virgin olive oil. The other family gathered the durum wheat harvest, milled the wheat into semolina grain and ultimately produced fresh pasta for the local market. Over time, both families became experts at their trade, passing their knowledge to the next generation, who in turn did the same. The two families had much in common not only in perfecting time-honored production methods, but also in name. They were both Colavita families.

COSTA DEI ROSMARINI

Luisa and Gian Marco Petrelli purchased and renovated an old house surrounded by secular plants of olive trees in Liguria, Italy. In 1995 they produced a very limited quantity of exceptionally high quality extra virgin olive oil. Soon their olive oil became known by prestigious hotels and famous chefs all over the world. Today they continue to produce small quantities of oil, which are taste tested by official tasters of ONAIO (the Italian Association of Olive Oil Tasters) to ensure premium quality.

ETRURIA

ETRURIA was a region of central Italy, located in an area that covered part of what are now Umbria, Tuscany, Latium and Emilia-Romagna. The ancient people of ETRURIA are called Etruscans and their complex culture was centered on numerous city-states that rose during the Villanovan period in the ninth century BC. The Etruscan civilization was responsible for much of the Greek culture imported into republican Rome, including the twelve Olympian gods, the growing of olive and grapes and architecture such as the arch.

ETRURIA, the company, was founded in 1998 by Umbrian native Giuseppe Cagnoni. He grew up on the green and fertile farmlands of this central Italian region and he is determined to bring the gastronomic treasures of Umbria to the world.

SALOV – SAGRA/TIGRE

The Salov Group was founded in 1919 by several prestigious olive oil producers and exporters in LUCCA, Tuscany, one of the hearts of olive oil production. One of the founder members was Dino Fontana of the Fontana Family (still at the head of the company and at the 4th generation). Today, with a turnover of over 350 million euro/year, SALOV is the biggest Italian company in the edible oil sector. The Salov Group is the only big company in this sector that has maintained its Italian ownership and origin. The Salov Group generates 55% of its turnover from export activities. The Group is 100% focused and specialized in edible oils, and especially in olive oil since 1919.

SAN GIULIANO

The origins of this oil dates back to the early 1900’s when the Manca family owned and operated a small olive oil mill in the hills of Alghero, Sardinia. All the olives used in the oil are grown in this region, which is known for the fruitful flavor of the olives. Currently the third generation of the Manca family is carrying on the tradition of producing world renowned olive oil. Their constant attention to quality is evident in every stage of production from the olive grove care to crushing the fruit within a few hours using granite stones for a more delicate crush.
